

LA GUARDIA WARNS THAT 1922 TAXES MAY SET RECORD

movement along the Atlantic border concentrated against the development of New York," he continues. "I have heard it said in Washington by representatives of ports not distant from this city that New York City is not spending money on its port development, and urging the national government to appropriate money for other ports rather than New York." President La Guardia says the city spent $11,220,878.42 on its water front in 1920.

Declaring that the city made a bad bargain in its agreement with the Interborough for the operation of subways, President La Guardia believes all lines should be operated by one directorate in which the city should have elected representatives. This would remove overhead charges and reduce the cost of power distribution.

"If the same grabbing selfishness and utter disregard of the stockholders' interests, the reliance on political favor rather than constructive and careful management displayed by public service company directors, had been followed by the business men of this country our industry and commerce would to-day be utterly ruined and the people of the United States would be hoarding in their stockings," said Mr. La Guardia.

Nothing in the investigation of transit lines in this city has shown that a five-cent fare does not pay the companies very amply on their investment, Mr. La Guardia contends.

"School buildings have been permitted to get into a dilapidated condition, and in some instances were not only unsafe but unsanitary," continued Mr. La Guardia. "This was due to the fact that repairs were put off from year to year in order to meet budget conditions. The $400,000 for repairs allowed in 1920 will permit the Education Department to take care of the most urgent cases."

There were 1,340 ordinances, resolutions and communications introduced in the Board of Aldermen last year.

The Committee on Markets of the Board of Aldermen is commended by President La Guardia for withholding its approval of a proposed site for a municipal terminal market in Manhattan between Piers No. 52 and No. 54, North River, along the marginal way to West Fourteenth Street and along Ninth Avenue to Greenwich Street to Ferry. It is recommended by President La Guardia that no action be taken on this site, as it embraces an area in which there are many dwellings. To condemn and tear down these structures now, President La Guardia says, would intensify the housing shortage and cause suffering. When the new Board of Aldermen was called to order it had one new member, David J. Stewart, No. 427 Lafayette Avenue, Brooklyn, who succeeds Robert Starr Allen.
